The work programme of the Customer Service Department is from Monday to Saturday between 09:00-18:00.

End users can forward complaints by Lycamobile within 30 calendar days of the date of the event in question. Complaints must include the name and contact details of the client, including the phone number, and a description of the aspects of the subject.

We intend to solve the complaint as soon as possible and that's why we will forward the information to the customer about how and when we set out to solve in one of the ways of communication for which the customer has opted at the time of registration of the complaint. The maximum term for the settlement of complaints is 5 business days.

In some situations, including force majeure, some cases, depending on the nature and complexity of the aspects are seized when necessary additional verifications or investigations, the term for the settlement of complaints may be extended, in exceptional cases up to 60 calendar days, prior notification to the customer of such circumstances.

The time limits mentioned above shall be calculated from the date of registration of the complaint to Lycamobile.

Lycamobile is committed to pay for each day of delay one euro credit directly on the SIM card for failure to meet the above mentioned deadlines, up to a maximum of EUR 100. This compensation is subject to the conditions of paragraph 8 of the terms and conditions without affecting your right to compensation for damages claimed and proven under the conditions specified therein.

Where the complaint is not solved amicably, the customer has the possibility of settlement of the dispute in order to address the ANCOM (National Authority for the Regulation and Administration of Communications), ANPC (National Authority for Consumer Protection) for natural persons, or to the competent court, if necessary.
